EMPLOYEE ASSISTANCE PROGRAM

A wealth of expert assistance in one cost-effective program

Going to work can sometimes be a great way to avoid thinking about a personal problem. But more often than not, trouble at home carries over into the workplace. One person's pain can affect the entire business—creating lost productivity, increased conflict and absenteeism.

The AssistNow® Employee Assistance Program can help employees, and their dependants resolve issues early, so they don't grow into more significant problems that can be more difficult to deal with. Confidential counselling provides people with the help they need when they need it. And it's a high-quality service— all counsellors have a Master's degree and years of clinical experience.

Counselling is the heart of the EAP, but there's a whole lot more—both for employees and for leaders. Health information, self-assessments, training, life coaching, management consultation and crisis management are also included at no extra cost.
